

Game Ready Cold Therapy

Have you seen your friends use an ice machine after having hip or knee replacement surgery? They probably really liked it and have recommended it to you. Dr. Loucks is now offering the Game Ready Cold Therapy System to his patients!

What is it? The Game Ready active compression and cold therapy system is intended to treat post-surgical swelling, pain, and bruising to help you recover as quickly as possible. It is known as the 'Cadillac' of cold therapy devices. It is typically used for 14-28 days following surgery.

How does it work? Traditional ice packs work well but the Game Ready utilizes technology to aid in a speedy recovery. Game Ready delivers continuous cold and intermittent pneumatic compression therapy to reduce swelling and pain. The system includes anatomically designed circumferential wraps that envelope the surgical site and conform to the contours of your body. This ensures better surface contact and thus more effective cooling.

How much does it cost? The rental cost of the unit is $600.00 plus gst for two weeks. Weekly, after the initial two weeks is $300 plus gst per week. Our practice has no financial stake in the Game Ready product. Dr. Loucks and his team recommend it solely due to its clinical benefits in our patients' recovery. Patient satisfaction levels are VERY HIGH with over 91% of people experiencing a more comfortable and faster recovery.

How do you get one? Jane Oldring our representative from the Game Ready Team who can provide you with more details and coordinate deliver for you and your family. Game Ready is delivered right to your home and picked up from your home too at no additional cost to you. Patients find it helpful to have this set up a few days prior to surgery please contact Jane ASAP. Last-minute requests can be accommodated as well but planning ahead is ideal. Your rental starts your first full day home from surgery.
